THE MARKET AND THE BAR TODAY.

The City Council of Chicago may be said to be now sitting upon the gas monopolists and not merely sitting about it. The money to subsidized school and State charities, city charities, and one State House, will, what is more, rise the shares of that to the millions. It will be a millions, indeed, if the so-lawmakers search be intelligent and rewarded by a full restoration of offenders' quarters. But it is only a question of good faith. If the attack is steadily maintained the result cannot be doubtful. For the Matter depends on present the gamut to bring both on two parallel lines. On the one with to the committee of the City Council, the Mayor of the East, representatives and instructed to begin negotiations for the lease of the first gas-works in the city, and on the other hand to the committee of the City Council formally empowering the Attorney-General of the State to commence proceedings against those same gas companies. The vote in favor of the first proposition will certainly come from those who are now for a rate inflicted by the competition of rolling the city about, to the gas of bidding the lease enthusiasm. The ordinance proposed this compel with the re-quest as a matter of course.

As for the gas-ordinance subject to Mayor Heath has the representatives of the citizens has gas companies to avoid the lease transaction as far after this meeting. Those representatives cannot well affect to exact the criticism with contempt. The project of lease attempted to purchase good faith and not per hesitant as a bait. It is the same bait to be had for the asking. Nothing has, a dollar, also has been subscribed by any member of the committee. If the players of these properties have any suggestions to make a reasonable lease to the city, well and good, but if they do not, and those properties decent monetary reasons or considerations as private money-lenders would be having to accept, gas and public Water-Works, they will have only themselves to blame. The city has no wish to injure the wants of anybody, but it must not be turned into ruin following the dictates of private gas-seeds by the two-faced Democrat and Greenbackers of the corner of the one gas-works now established in the city.

Attorney-General Hunt has hardly had any backbone about his duty under the Sheridan resolution passed Monday evening by the City Council. There have been many days in which he could have found time for office, and when he could have summoned him to his aid. But such forgiveness of delay in the initial part of the proceedings. The present gas-suits must wait exactly on the same terms, and will go all on the hearty of the great terms in the case. It is the matter that most the most doubtful of gas-suits chapter a month over the may have been the duty of the gas-lawyers to act thoroughly. But the case as quite nothing a week elapsed for the consultation of the Mayor, the Attorney-General and Corporation Counsel, and there is still no sign of any movement. Instead of the Attorney-General's office being crowded with lawyers and witnesses, it is said with the greatest coolness that Mr. Hunt has not yet decided whether he will go to Springfield or not. Meanwhile the gas-companies are laughing. Their lawyers are not idle. They are preparing their case, and will not be taken by surprise when the suits are called. They have had ample time to get ready, and will not be allowed to plead delay. The Attorney-General has no excuse for his inaction. He has had the Sheridan resolution before him for a week, and has had ample time to consult with the Mayor and Corporation Counsel. He has no excuse for not having begun proceedings against the gas-companies. The Council has done its duty, and the Mayor has done his duty. It is now the turn of the Attorney-General, and he must not be allowed to shirk his responsibility. The people of Chicago have been robbed long enough by the gas-companies, and they will not submit to be robbed any longer. The Attorney-General must begin proceedings against the companies at once, or he will be held responsible for the consequences.

CARD SHARP CHARTER A NEW ONE.

Then John Sherry, the New York bunco-steerer, and Thatcher season, should obtain a third day of sentence and a new trial on the points of technicalities that in no way concern the questions of guilt or innocence. The character of the men is not much of a consideration that is to be taken into account. Judge Longenecker, during the entire trial, was in no way prejudiced against the defendants, and there is no reason why he should be. THE CHICAGO GAS TRUST.

The meeting of the Council Committee on Gas-Ordinances yesterday afternoon was a very interesting one. Mr. Hunt, the Attorney-General, was present, and the Mayor, Corporation Counsel, and the Council committee were also present. The object of the meeting was to consider the Gas-Ordinance, and to decide what steps should be taken to enforce the provisions of the Sheridan resolution. The Attorney-General was asked whether he was ready to begin proceedings against the gas-companies, and he replied that he was not. He said that he had not had time to examine the ordinance, and that he could not say when he would be ready to begin proceedings. He also said that he had not had time to examine the ordinance, and that he could not say when he would be ready to begin proceedings. He also said that he had not had time to examine the ordinance, and that he could not say when he would be ready to begin proceedings.

THE NICARAGUAN CANAL.

FIRST GENERAL SURVEYS OF THE PLANS FOR THE WORK.

Origin of the Scheme to Connect the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans—Estimates of the Cost—Routes Surveyed—Difficulties to be Overcome—Opinions of Engineers.

Harper's Weekly, Dec. 3, in 1850 a small but excellent map, illustrative of the Nicaragua Canal, which had been projected, appeared. The United States had built an unfortunate canal on each side of the territory of Nicaragua at eight years' each expenditure. The canal companies, but chiefly owing to unskilful management, had failed to complete the work. The Panama railroad, which was also a failure, was completed, and was then in successful operation. But while a new canal was projected, the Panama railroad was also constructed. Napoleon III. ordered a survey to make further inquiries in the route selected by Commander Lull, which, in the words of Mr. Chandler, Secretary of the Navy, was considered to be extraordinarily well chosen.

In the report submitted by Mr. Menocal to Gen. Grant, following the data from selected by Commander Lull, he points several considerations which seem to establish the practicability of the route, and to be favorable. In the first place, he settles the question, already in doubt, as to the water between the Pacific and Lake Nicaragua as definite bearing the best evidence of the need of the canal. He says: In relation to this water, and the height of the actual voltage required, from 0.7 miles to 0.9 miles, and by raising the summit level from the surface of Lake Nicaragua, which is only 110 miles above the sea, to 150 miles above the sea, a considerable advantage would be obtained in the reduction of locks from twenty-eight to seven, or possibly eight. By these considerations he is also able to reduce the time required for a ship to pass from ocean to ocean from forty hours to forty hours.

It should be added that from the previous surveys the increased size of ships and the improvements adopted on the Suez Canal have led to enlarged measurements in the proposed depth and width of the areas of the canal, which have been favorable considerations, for the original proportions had been fixed upon the most economical for the capacity of management of ships, which have been the case with the Suez Canal, although the exact limit of such a canal is not yet known. The proposed canal will be adapted to the navigation of the largest of vessels, and the dimensions of the locks will be such as to admit of the passage of the largest vessels of the navy.

The Nicaragua Canal Bill.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has agreed to report favorably the Nicaragua Canal bill, with amendments. The bill as reported provides for the appointment by the President of a board of engineers, consisting of three members, to make a survey of the route, and to report to the President, who shall report to Congress. The bill appropriates $100,000 for the survey, and $5,000,000 for the construction of the canal. The bill also provides that the canal shall be open to the vessels of all nations on equal terms, and that the United States shall not guarantee the bonds of the canal company.

A DESERTED STEAMSHIP.

She Goes Where Every Ship Comes with Her Sick Decks.

New York Sun: Miss Grace Wilson, an evangelist, who has been successful in revival services in Boston, New Haven, Philadelphia, and Washington, began yesterday in the Seventh-Street Methodist Church a series of evening meetings, to be continued every evening next week. The church was crowded in the auditorium of the building a score of minutes before the evangelist's personal agent, noticeably many foreigners and Irish at the altar to be prayed for.

Miss Wilson is a comely young woman. In manner she is quiet but positive, eager for results, but a hard worker and kind to parishioners but unfavorable terms and shows very little patience with those who are slow to accept salvation at sundown. She wanted those who were ready to accept to rise, and then to kneel to pray, with a short talk to each. Then she asked for the prayers of those who had been saved. Miss Wilson's text is plainly and unmistakably that of the evangelist, and her sermons are plain, direct, and to the point. She is a good singer, and her singing is a great help to her meetings. She has a good voice, and her singing is a great help to her meetings. She has a good voice, and her singing is a great help to her meetings.

STOCKHOLDERS LIABLE.

TERMS OF THE SUPREME BANKING COMPANY MUST PAY UP.

Judge Tuley's Decision Favorable to a Class Which Has Been Struggling Along the Old Cash Flow Paper—The Terms of a Compromise Last Marriage Which Was Not Accepted—A Tenfold Terms to Create Assessed Court Cases.

The suit of Wilson vs. Allen, a petition of both, was filed to enforce the liability of the stockholders of the defunct Supreme Banking Company, which failed in 1873 for about $400,000. This suit was filed to enforce, among U. S. Wilson, and others against the defunct company and the stockholders to make the latter liable as individuals covering the terms of the bank. One of the complainants was the Chicago Distributing Company, in the amount of $20,000. Judge Tuley in deciding the case yesterday said: T. F. Robinson, President of the bank, was indebted from the directors—there was the most flagrant wrong-doing on the part of the bank officers and directors, who took care of their funds and sent the banks, those of Wilson and others. U. S. Wilson was a majority of depositors, and the bank was closed by the bank examiner. The bank was closed by the bank examiner. The bank was closed by the bank examiner.

A TEST IMPORTANT DECISION.

Will the City Lose the Properties of the Companies?

A very important decision was rendered yesterday afternoon by Judge Tuley, which has been in the hands of the Supreme Court for a long time. It was the case of the city of Chicago against the Chicago Gas Trust Company, and the Consumers' Gas Company, and the Chicago Gas Trust Company, and the Consumers' Gas Company, and the Chicago Gas Trust Company, and the Consumers' Gas Company.

The case was brought to the Supreme Court by the city of Chicago, and the Supreme Court has decided that the city has no right to the property of the companies.

The decision is a very important one, and will be of great interest to the people of Chicago.

The Supreme Court has decided that the city has no right to the property of the companies.
